Public Transport Options

- Train

There are rail travel options from Heathrow Airport to Southampton or Winchester station. If you travel by train, there will typically be one or two changes during your journey. While rail travel is generally more expensive than coach travel, you can make savings by booking your ticket in advance on trainline.com.

Opening a Bank Account

Choosing a bank

When selecting and opening a bank account or building society account as an international student in the UK, it is important to take various factors into consideration. We can't offer guidance on the specific account or financial institution you should opt for, but there are several consumer websites in the UK that focus on giving tips regarding the accounts offered by local banks.

Banks will often offer a basic bank account, which is different to a standard 'current account'. It offers limited facilities, is usually fee-free, and allows you to receive money and pay bills but does not allow you to have an overdraft.

Money Helper has comprehensive information on the identity requirements needed for basic bank accounts.

Changing your address or other personal details

You should let your bank / building society know as soon as possible if you change your address or any other personal details while you are in the UK. Try to keep copies of any correspondence you have with your bank / building society. If you are leaving the UK for a long break, for example for the summer vacation, you should let your bank know, in case they treat your account as 'dormant' and close it.

Healthcare

Registering with a local doctor

To access health care in the UK, you need to register with a GP (General Practitioner) when you arrive. Some treatment provided by the UK's National Health Service (NHS) is free for everyone, including a visit to your GP.

If your GP refers you to hospital for treatment, you will usually be given an appointment to see a consultant (specialist doctor). If you think you need to see a specialist, you should approach your GP first and ask them to refer you.

Registering with a local dentist

When you contact a local dentist, you should ask whether they will accept you as an NHS patient. Many dentists in the UK now only accept private patients. Even if you are treated under the NHS there will be a charge, but the cost will be lower than that of a private practice. You can register with a dentist close to where you live.

When to call 999

The number for life-threatening emergencies in the UK is 999. The accident and emergency department in hospitals (A&E) is for emergencies only, if you are not sure what to do you can call the National Health Service's helpline (111) first or visit your pharmacy. They will be able to advise you.

The Advice Centre: Housing, Academic Matters and Finance

The SUSU Advice Centre provides free, independent and confidential support to all students. Visit the website to access guides and documents to help you with practical topics such as academic matters, finances and housing.

For example, if you have found accommodation but you are not sure about the fine print in your contract, our advice team can help you look through the document.

If the online guides on the website don't answer your questions, please contact the Advice team at advice@susu.org.

Clubs & Societies

With over 300 sports and activities, we can almost guarantee that you will be able to find a group based on your hobbies or interests. Studying on campus is just the beginning, and the Students' Union gives you plenty of opportunities to have fun and get involved with something new. Whether it's competing in a sport you love, giving back to the local community through volunteering or trying something completely new, there's a club or society out there for you!

To explore all of our student groups, head to the Activities section on the SUSU website. Though all of our groups are open to all students, we understand that it may feel a bit daunting to jump in and join a club or society as an international student. Most groups will have a general contact address on their SUSU web page to contact with any questions. If you scroll down to the committee you can also reach out directly to the group's Welfare Officer (if they have one) to talk through any concerns.

Clubs & Societies

Hear from Uluk

"I come from a small country of Kyrgyzstan in Central Asia. Coming from abroad to the UK can be difficult and daunting. However, it doesn't have to be. Southampton University is a unique opportunity to have an adventure in this part of your life. Your university experience is what you make of it. So go on and make your story. Meet new people, make friends, experience new things, learn new skills. I trained at the Boxing society and made my way to become the president of the club. I made lifelong friends at the Russian Speaking society and met like minded academics with the Physics and Chemistry societies. Starting from undergraduate physics degree, I built my academic career and currently I am completing a PhD in Chemistry and am now teaching undergraduates myself. Every story starts with a single step, so start your story at the University of Southampton"

-Uluk Rasulov

Clubs & Societies

Hear from Lucia

"As an international student, settling in at university can prove to be challenging. The different food, culture and general habits can you easily put you off and make you feel lost. My best advice to overcome any fear and find your comfort zone is to put yourself out there and join a society or club! I joined the Italian society as soon as I started to feel homesick. By joining this society I was able to share my feelings and thoughts with people from my native country and receive reassurance and advice from them. Joining this society also gave me the opportunity to bring a piece of Italy at the uni, by organising socials and events as their president. As an opportunity to keep active and free my mind after long lectures or intense study sessions I also joined a sports club. In my case, Water polo was the perfect choice. A not too small club, where everyone knows and support each other. With regular training planned but also with frequent scheduled socials that shaped some of the best memories at university."

-Lucia Ciardo

Clubs & Societies

Hear from Nicolas

"When I first came to the UK, I knew it would be a challenge to fit in as everyone around me had different interests and had different ways of living. I never felt excluded or that it was harder to approach people as everyone was in the same position. Within the first week I had already joined two societies, one was the Greek and Cypriot society of Southampton. This helped me meet new people from my country. Joining the society helped me solve any questions I had about the university and general things about the city and way of life. Back in Cyprus I was always a big fan of sports especially basketball, this encouraged me to join the university's basketball team. Me and my teammates quickly fit in as we all shared the same love for the sport. Joining the basketball team helped me make new friends from countries all around the world which was amazing. I am now going into my second year, and I will be staying with a few friends that I met through the Greek and Cypriot society. I am honestly really happy for choosing to study at the University of Southampton and haven't regretted my choice."

-Nicolas Petsas

Clubs & Societies

Hear from Marina

Moving abroad for my studies was very exciting but naturally came with a sense of fear of the unknown. There was so much to learn and even more to do. In fact, there was almost too much to do, the number of possibilities, responsibilities and opportunities can sometimes leave you feeling overwhelmed. There have been times when the fear and hesitation almost outweighed my determination to make the most out of university experience. Fortunately, I decided to put myself out there, and have never looked back since. Joining the Greek & Cypriot society allowed me to seek comfort when being away from home was tougher than usual. The Riding Club welcomed me with open arms, supported my passion for the sport and expanded my mental horizons. I have made lifelong friends, been on committees, and fell in love with the sense of social responsibility and the effect it's had on my personal growth and development. It is safe to say that I now a far more well-rounded person thanks to these experiences and more eager than ever to place my own milestone in others' journeys as the current Vice President of Sports. Always remember that you are braver than you think, so go out there and live every moment to the fullest. It's the best gift you can ever do to yourself.

-Marina Stasi

Student Representation

One of SUSU's most important objectives is to represent the voice of every student at the University of Southampton. We are one of the most fully independent student unions in the UK, run by students, for students. We are here to represent you and ultimately help make your university experience the best it can be.

Our Sabbatical Officers are responsible for overseeing the policy and activity zones, and setting the direction for the Students' Union each academic year. They oversee and support the Student Leaders and other voluntary officers in their roles throughout the year.

Representation: Elections

Why get involved in our Student Elections?

Standing as a candidate for a representation role provides you with experience and employability skills. Putting together your nomination and campaigning for the vote of students demonstrates public speaking, social media marketing, networking and project management skills. If you are successful, you will have full training with the Union, so don't worry if you don't have any previous experience. The work you do through the year will improve student life for others and you will gain recognition for your work. Head to this page to find out more about our elections.

How else can I get involved?

- Voting in our elections is one of the key ways you can make your voice heard by the Union. The student officers and academic reps we work with each year represent all students and inform projects and activities at the Union. If you aren't running for a role yourself, you can still be involved by following the elections campaigns and voting for the candidate that you feel best represents you.
- Talking to our officers and reps throughout the year ensures they know about your concerns or ideas about student life at Southampton, and means we can work towards any positive changes students want to implement. You can find information about your elected representatives here: Academic Reps and Student Officers.
